Here's what's to come!

Hi everyone! We hope you're staying warm despite the snowy January weather.

This month, we're looking forward to learning all about flower photography from our guest speaker, Lori Lankford. We also have some great new outings on the calendar thanks to Charles. Read on for those details.

Lastly, we are excited to debut our new conservation section with a look at the Plover Project, perfect for anyone who missed Benjamin's presentation last month.

Upcoming Speaker Event

Lori Lankford – Creative Flower Photography

Tuesday, February 17th - on Zoom only

Lori Lankford's passion for photography began as a way to capture her travel adventures and has grown into a love for landscapes, macro, and especially close-up and abstract photography. Escaping into the tiny details of a flower or object allows her to shut out the world for a few moments, finding beauty in both light and shadow. Her work has been exhibited in galleries across the U.S., and she enjoys sharing her creative process through local and online workshops. Lori's goal is always to keep learning, growing, and capturing the expected in unexpected ways.

Rooted in her love of nature and flowers, much of her work is created in her English cutting garden and potting shed. Through creative shooting and post-processing techniques, Lori aims to reveal hidden details and evoke emotion—showcasing the beauty often overlooked in everyday life.

Short Form Video

We are looking for anyone with experience in video editing who would be willing to volunteer their time to help create 30 second video trailers for our speaker events. These videos can be used to help attract new members and give people a better sense of what our speaker events are like. If you would like to help with this project, please email us info@sierraphotonyc.com

Eventbrite Page

Earlier this year we created a new eventbrite page for Sierra Club Photo NYC. We encourage everyone to follow our page HERE to be sure you are notified every time a new event is created.

Plover Project

If you caught our last speaker event, you heard Benjamin Forbes tell us about the amazing work he does with this project. In case you missed it, or if you are looking for more information, here it is:

Mission: About 100 Piping Plovers have nested in NYC in recent years, and fewer than 8,000 plovers remain globally. Our mission is to protect endangered Piping Plovers and other fragile beach-nesting birds on New York City's beaches through education, community engagement, and volunteer stewardship.

Work: Piping Plover & Shorebird Beach Ambassador Program. Together with our partners at the National Park Service and NYC Department of Parks and Recreation, we have a force of volunteers from the Rockaways and beyond working to connect daily with thousands of beachgoers from Breezy Point Tip to Far Rockaway. We help to educate folks about the importance of habitat protections and other simple tips to help our nesting visitors which need NYC beaches to survive.

Education: We have programs in schools from K-12, ranging from arts programs to high school citizen science curriculum. To learn more about our education programs or arrange an educational program for your school, please contact our education director, Ciara Fagan, ciara@nycploverproject.org.
